Vinification and aging: The grapes are harvested before full maturation to maintain an excellent acid balance, essential for sparkling wines. Then the juice remains in contact with the skins, for a very short time, to extract a slight pinkish color; finally a soft pressing takes place.

The must obtained ferments in steel at a controlled temperature (16 °C). The second fermentation takes place from the beginning of the spring after the harvest. After the second fermentation in bottle the wine ages on the lees for a minimum of 24 months.

The sparkling wine is not dosed.
